

 Forrest Kinney is coming again.....

Winter 2018
FORREST KINNEY WORKSHOP
Saturday, January 20- Chord Play 1
Sunday, January 21- Pattern Play 2
Monday morning, January 22- Pattern Play 1
At: Tom Lee Music Langley

Hello fellow South Fraser Branch Members,

Due to many inquiries and interest we will again be hosting Forrest Kinney and his Chord Play and Pattern Play 1 & 2 Workshops. We are so excited that he has made time for us again.

This workshop last winter was extraordinary for the South Fraser BCRMTA branch members who attended. Many even commented afterwards that it was like therapy.

Please note that we switched around the days that we will be hosting the Chord Play I and Pattern Play I from last year. So that if you couldn't make the Saturday workshop, but were able to make the Sunday workshop last year, then now the Chord Play I you may have missed is offered on the Sunday. The Monday will be a shorter session covering level 2 materials.

Forrest Kinney imparted his amazing theory and techniques on how to approach the piano. An approach whereby we learned to play the piano without having any music in front of us. For us who have read music since early on, and are not instinctive with playing by ear, nor gifted in creating our own music, nor in playing improvisation, we had the privilege of learning these skills and feeling like now we can actually do it. Then for those who play this way easily, it is still an amazing approach to learn so that you can use Forrest's system and impart this skill easily with your students.

It is like being a painter and learning to copy the masters, but at some point being given the freedom to paint one's own creation. At this weekend last year we felt liberated and like we had been given the tools to create our own.
